residential solar in washington state - k-12 washington public school principals (n = 139). results identified a strong disparity between the liberal/urban western washington and the conservative/rural eastern washington. degree of awareness of residential solar emerged as the primary qualitative result driving uptake, and can also be used to explain many of the statistical correlations. on the relationship between ocean dms and solar radiation - these artificially strong correlations result from the reduction in the total variance in the data due to binning. correlations of similar strength but opposite in sign are obtained using mld as a predictor variable, both for raw and averaged data (figure 1b). this suggests that neither srd nor mld is the dominant source of variation in dms the annual cycle over the tropical atlantic, south america ... - the annual cycle over the tropical atlantic, south america, and africa* ... department of atmospheric sciences, university of washington, seattle, washington (manuscript received 29 april 2002, in final form 16 january 2003) ... ing the annual solar variation untouched. they found that even over the unchanging ocean in the gulf of u.s. curriculum correlations by state - starry night middle school correlations u.s. curriculum correlations by state washington, d.c. continued grade 6 solar system 6.3 astronomy and planetary exploration reveal the structure and scale of the solar system. 1. recognize that the solar system consists of the earth, moon, sun, eight generally solar cycle variation in solar f-mode frequencies and radius - solar cycle. some variation in f-mode frequencies have been reported in the mdi data by dziembowski et al. (1998) who find that the solar radius reached a minimum around the minimum activity period and was larger by about 5 km, 6 months before and after the minimum. if this variation is correlated with solar activity then we would expect researches on temperature changes from day to day and ... - researches on temperature changes from day to day and solar constant variations* henryk arctowski smithsonian institution, washington, d. c. he smithsonian solar-constant or more), the regions where the num- solar variability and climate change& geomagnetic aa index ... - mum geomagnetic conditions to infer the solar-induced temperature change since ~1650. cliver et al.
